J. E. PECK MAKING POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Attention of Bonanza readers is called to the political career of J. E. "Jack" Peck, who is the republican nominee for county commissioner for the short term. Mr. Peck needs no introduction to the people of Nye county, and it is doubtful if any man in this section of the state enjoys a wider acquaintance. For nearly 17 years he has been affiliated with the Tonopah & Goldfield railroad as the station agent in Tonopah, and during that time he has met nearly every resident, establishing many warm friendships that are as lasting as time. He is prominent in lodge circles, as well as in business lines, and his friends feel sure that he will be elected to the office to which he aspires when the votes are counted on Nov. 7. Mr. Peck is a married man and the father of three charming daughters, and his home life is surrounded with happiness.

AMUSEMENTS

BUSTER KEATON, COMEDY KING
If you've never had experience in burning your bridges behind you, Buster Keaton supplies an example in his latest comedy, "The Pale Face," which will be shown at the Butler today.

The frozen-faced comedian carries a rich line of humor that reaches a climax as he is trapped on the heights over an abyss. Connecting the two ropes upon which four or five planks are the only safety spot from a 100-foot drop. Pursed by rival bands of Indians, the droll comedian builds his bridges and then destroys them as he goes along, by taking up the planks with him and replacing them with the other side.

Unusual falls, hairbreadth escapes Oct. 19 and 20. Two days only. An and novelty stage add excitement and opportunity to have glasses properly fun to the insidious comedy offering fitted.

The other picture on today's bill is Leslie Henson, the famous London comedian, in "Air's Button," which marks his motion picture debut. The picture is based on the novel which won world-wide fame as one of the most humorous stories ever written. It is a First National attraction.

Tomorrow, Marie Prevost, the bathing beauty, in "Don't Get Personal," and "Robinson Crusoe," Monday, A Zane Grey story, "The Man of the Forest."

PYTHIANS TO ENTERTAIN
The Pythian Sisters will open the season with one of their delightful card parties and dances on Oct. 26. Everyone is assured of an enjoyable evening.

Dr. Taylor, optometrist of Reno, will be in Tonopah at the Golden Eagle hotel Thursday and Friday, Oct. 19 and 20. Two days only. An and novelty stage add excitement and opportunity to have glasses properly fitted.
